

Attachment 1:	Job Description
Title of Position:	Data analyst
Date of Job Description	17 th May 2021
Reporting to:	Monitoring Evaluation and Learning Advisor
Job Summary: The Data analyst is responsible for the design, analysis and reporting of statistical analysis tasks in the assigned programs and research. Under general direction from the supervisor, independently participates in planning, designing, and implementation of research projects; analyses, interprets statistical data and advises the project team on statistical interpretation and implications of the results for program planning and decision making. The incumbent serves as an expert of advanced methods of statistical analysis, advanced programming consultation, planning and conducting analyses of complex study design.
Key Responsibilities
Data flow, statistical design and analysis - Provides advice/technical support to the project team and stakeholders in regard to the statistical aspects of research and program evaluation such as study design, sample size determination, power analysis, data management, analysis of data, presentation of statistical information and other related issues. - Analyze large scale data sets such as the Kenya Health Information System and triangulates this to the survey and research data - Participate and take a lead role in data analyses for publications on ongoing research work - Interprets and analyzes data for the project team and assists them in the interpretation of the statistical implications of the data for public health policy and program activities; - Assist in selection of statistical methods for data analysis, in authoring and reviewing the corresponding sections of the program evaluation and research protocols and methods sections of reports, abstracts and manuscripts, and in conducting the analysis once datasets are created. - Provide statistical technical assistance to data management staff required to provide cleaned and verified datasets for analysis, including efficient scoring, processing and extraction of datasets. - Prepare the cleaning do files to be used for data cleaning when project implementation is undergoing to ensure that the data of high quality are collected. - Takes a lead role in generating and managing survey weights Project Development and design - Participate in the protocol development and advice on designing of data collection tools and data analysis plan. - Participates in identification and selection of the technology platform for the database - Assist in defining and implementing key performance indicators (KPI) as well provide monitoring support during the implementation of the project. - Assist the supervisor to plan and oversee M&E activities ensuring effective use of data in decision-making. - Provides technical support to the project teams to understand the indicators at the design level. Communicating results

- Collaborate with team members to write protocols, reports, abstracts and manuscripts and to communicate statistical results in meetings and conferences locally and internationally.
- Show a high level of attention to detail during the compilation of large amounts of statistical output to ensure accurate presentation of and reporting of results.
- Communicate statistical information to non-statisticians both in written and spoken form.
- Takes a lead role in data visualization and communication by ensuring that all the data products are designed and tailored to respond to the needs of specific audiences.

Requirements

- An MSC in Applied Statistics or Bio-statistics or a quantitative social science discipline (e.g. Demography, Economics).
- Proven high level proficiency in statistical analysis and management of large datasets (e.g. Demographic Health Surveys and censuses) using software's like Stata, SAS, and SPSS.
- Minimum of 5 years of relevant hands-on experience in a similar position.
- Excellent writing and communication skills in English.
- Evidence of scientific publications and/ or scientific conference presentations is desirable.