

Attachment 1	Job Description
Title of Position:	Resident Enumerator
Date of Job Description:	01 August 2025
Reporting to:	County Field Supervisor
Job Summary
The Resident Enumerator will play a key role in supporting research activities through in Meru and Tharaka Nithi accurate and ethical data collection using digital tools. The position requires strict adherence to study protocols, professional interaction with participants, CREAW Kenya local partners and local administrative office in the study sites.
Duties and Responsibilities
- Participate in pre-deployment training covering study protocols, research ethics, data collection tools (e.g., REDCap), and handling of sensitive topics. - Conduct structured interviews using tablet and REDCap in accordance with study guidelines. - Obtain informed consent from participants in compliance with ethical standards prior to data collection. - Ensure accurate and complete data entry during each interview session. - Submit completed survey forms to the central server immediately after completion of each interview. - Maintain the highest standards of ethical research, ensuring informed consent, voluntary participation, and confidentiality of study participants data. - Monitor and track daily progress against set data collection targets and timelines. - Report daily updates to the County Field Supervisor, including progress, participant-related issues, or logistical challenges. - Maintain and secure data collection tools, including tablets, consent forms, and related materials - Perform any other tasks as assigned by the supervisor or project management team in support of study objectives.
Academic / Professional Qualifications
- Must have completed secondary school education - KCSE and attained a minimum grade of C- and above. - Prior experience in field data collection or similar roles is an asset. - Familiarity with digital data collection tools, especially REDCap. - Strong interpersonal and communication skills. - Ability to work independently and responsibly under minimal supervision. - High regard for research ethics, integrity, and confidentiality - Proficiency in using a smart phone is a MUST. - Knowledge of community engagement strategies and cultural sensitivity. - Flexibility to work irregular hours and travel to various locations as required - Additional training after secondary education especially in ICT will be an added advantage. MUST be residents of the specified county and are required to provide a referral letter from the area Chief or Assistant Chief.

